3 · The Opportunity

WHY NOW

Education is one of the largest employers in the country — and it hires constantly.

Education isn't a niche labour market; it's a continuous, large-scale one. India's school system alone spans roughly 14.7 lakh schools and a teaching workforce that crossed one crore — ten million — for the first time in 2024-25, with higher education adding over four crore students and their institutions on top. Every one of those institutions hires, and re-hires, across dozens of role types every single year.

Three points worth showing

- A permanent, nationwide hiring base — around 14.7 lakh schools and ten million teachers, before colleges and universities are counted.

- The support-staff gap is real — non-teaching staff have fallen to roughly one support member for every fourteen teachers. Campuses are short on exactly the roles general job boards ignore.
- High churn fuels constant demand — in private schools, a large share of teachers work without a written contract; turnover is high and hiring never stops.

4 · The Problem — Three Categories

THE HIRING CHALLENGE

Education hiring falls into three categories — and each is harder than office hiring.

Scattered channels. Openings are spread across newspapers, WhatsApp groups, agencies and generic job boards, with no single place to post, manage or track them.

The non-teaching gap. Mainstream boards chase teachers. Drivers, peons, security, housekeeping, lab, sports, counselling and admin roles stay underserved — even though campuses are structurally short on them.

Slow verification. Shortlisting drags because credentials, identity and fit are checked manually, candidate by candidate, with no trusted profile to start from.

Closing line: EduVyapar is built for all three — one platform that unifies posting, sourcing, verification and payment.
